MARKETING TIPS

SPRING INTO SPRING WITH THE FRESHEST PROMOTIONS

Planning your print and digital marketing campaigns around spring and summertime events can not only give your business a great reason to engage customers and drive sales, it can also help set it apart from competitors who aren’t launching timely advertising. There are endless traditional and unconventional calendar days that can inspire festive promos, so your business can draw crowds and stay top of mind.

Honoring Special Recognition Days – Outside of traditional or well-known holidays, there are specific dates that acknowledge major diseases, acts of kindness, nonprofit foundations and much more. Your business can easily shine a spotlight on a meaningful cause or give back to the local community with any commemorative day that aligns with your mission and values.

Tax Day Relief After April 17
No matter the industry you’re targeting, you can leverage tax season to help promote your products and services. On the day after tax day, offer your customers a discount or completely free gift – because they’ll appreciate a break from paying “the man.” Financial services and tax solutions businesses may also market their services several months before tax day arrives.

Teacher Appreciation Week May 7-11
Support educators in your community while simultaneously attracting them to your business. There are numerous ways to give teachers a financial break and show your appreciation, such as: free or discounted meals, clothing essentials, groceries, school supplies, wellness services and more. For example, retailer Anthropologie runs an annual promotion offering teachers 20% off with a valid teacher ID. Spread the word with a local postcard campaign and corresponding digital marketing efforts.

Mother’s & Father’s Day Celebrations May 13 / June 17
Celebrate moms and dads (or even parents-to-be) with an incentive to visit your store or order online. Mother’s Day resides in May and Father’s Day is in June, but parents won’t argue with being celebrated all month long. Mail a folded greeting card to moms and dads on your mailing list or ask us about securing a targeted list to invite prospects to shop for their parents.

Revitalize Your Marketing Inventory
Spring cleaning is for much more than your home. What about your old, dusty marketing materials? Recycle outdated messaging or designs and freshen up your collateral, including business cards, letterhead, folders and more! Impeccable brand awareness and presentation are the keys to success.

Welcome New Movers
Springtime is the busiest season for real estate agents and equally a great opportunity for local companies. Did you know that on average, consumers spend more than $9,000 on purchases within the first few months following a move? Your business can reach this first-rate group of prospects with the right mailing list, then reel them in with a killer offer. Create a highly-personalized direct mail campaign using Variable Data Printing that welcomes new movers with special savings – and turn relocated prospects into life-long customers.
